

10-YEAR PLAN TO DISMANTLE POVERTY RELEASE COMMUNICATIONS TOOLKIT

Thank you for being a part of this journey. We are thrilled the time has arrived to release the final plan to Governor Inslee. We could not have gotten here today without your engagement and dedication to the Work Group and passion for programs and services that reduce poverty.

We are providing this communications toolkit before our release day to help you prepare to share this exciting news with your professional networks and local media. We are working on some items up until the day of submitting the plan, so we will send more images and links as they are ready.

Please note that the materials enclosed in this toolkit are embargoed until January 7, 2021. Please do not communicate publicly about the final 10-year Plan until then.

In this toolkit

Dismantle Poverty Initiative

Governor Inslee created the Poverty Reduction Work Group (PRWG) in 2017, tasking the group to create a comprehensive, 10-year plan to reduce poverty and inequality in Washington state. For the last two years, a diverse and dedicated group of 45 stakeholders, informed by a 22-member Steering Committee of people experiencing poverty, met monthly to ultimately craft eight strategies containing more than 50 recommendations that serve as a blueprint for a just and equitable future. Our joint website with more information is at Dismantle Poverty in WA.

Key Messages

For the Release of the Final 10-year Plan

- We have a plan to meet the moment and build a just and equitable future for all.
- This is a blueprint for Washington's economic recovery from COVID-19.
- This work aims to help all Washingtonians have the dignity of their foundational needs met.

Five immediate actions anyone can do to help:

1. Visit www.dismantlepovertyinwa.com to learn more about PRWG and the Steering Committee, hear from agency leadership on their support for the plan, and sign up to stay connected to the work.
2. Read the Plan to review the full set of strategies and recommendations.
3. Use the Action Toolkit to identify ways you and your organization can contribute to implementation of the plan.
4. Follow us on social media to engage in the work and share our posts with your networks.
5. Invite the PRWG Steering Committee and members to your events to learn more about the plan from the people who led its development.

For poverty reduction in Washington state

- People with lived experience were at the center of creating the plan. Twenty-two people experiencing poverty formed the Steering Committee and informed the process. They have experience navigating public services and insight into opportunities for our state. They had final decision-making authority on the 10-year Plan.
- Poverty reduction has broad support. A statewide multi-agency work group made up of community organizations, racial and ethnic commissions and others, met for two years. It gathered a great deal of research and data, and used a racial-equity consultant and toolkit to look at poverty holistically.
- If we want better results, we need a better system. And we need to work with and change the system we have to get the system we need.
- The research is clear — reducing poverty will improve the well-being of children, families, and communities. In Washington state, 1.8 million people struggle to make ends meet — enough people to fill Lumen Field nearly 25 times.

- Washington state will not reach its full potential until its residents can. Reducing poverty and inequality is an essential investment in the collective well-being of our communities and economy.
- Reducing poverty benefits everyone in the state. It gives our state's economy the stability to endure economic downturns.
- When poverty and inequality decreases, Washington's economy benefits. For every $1 invested in poverty reduction there is a $7 return to the economy.

Ways to amplify the 10-year Plan and your organization's role in it

Email announcement. Send an email to your organization's key audiences and advocates letting them know the plan has been submitted to the Governor and use any of these key messages and actions above.

Employee Communications. Share the Plan through leaders, your intranet, newsletters, website and social media. Hold webinars so employees can learn more details and ask questions so they better understand the strategies and the path ahead.

Social Media. Use the information provided in this toolkit to share the Plan on social media through your organization's channels — Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, and consider placing digital ads to drive people to the Dismantle Poverty site.

Blog. Write a blog or record a brief video sharing what the Plan means to you and your organization, why being on the Work Group was impactful, and what actions you're taking now to build a just and equitable future. We're always looking for great content for the new Dismantle Poverty in WA blog.

“As soon as I take a breath and have a second to just sit and play with my kids on the floor and not worry about how I am going to get dinner on the table tonight or how to pay the rent...the rug gets pulled out from underneath me. It's like a game of Chutes & Ladders...I climb up, just to fall back down repeatedly, and getting to the top seems dependent on a lucky roll of the dice.” - PRWG Steering Committee Member

The Steering Committee's role was central to the development of the #Blueprint4theFuture.

“For those of you with the power to now decide whether and how to act, please remember that millions of Washingtonians, just like us, will continue to struggle to keep a roof over our head, struggle to feed our children, and live without peace of mind that things will be okay. Please don't forget that we are the people behind the numbers, the lives that will benefit should you choose to act.” ~Words from our Poverty Reduction Work Group Steering Committee.
